Newsletter Article: Interested in Service on the ANS Savannah River Executive Committee?

ANS Savannah River invites members in the nuclear community to consider future service on our Executive Committee. Strong leadership is a hallmark of our section and we encourage highly motivated and committed members to consider volunteering for leadership service.

Who are we looking for?

ANS Savannah River seeks committee members who are committed to the nuclear industry and to advancing nuclear science, engineering, and technology in the organizations and communities they represent. Our section is strongly committed to embracing the diversity that makes up our community. We seek nominees who:

- Have been active ANS members for at least two years;
- Have strong leadership and service orientation, interests and experiences;
- Serve a cross-section of Savannah River's diverse communities; and
- Represent diversity of professional focus, age, race/ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation and geography.

Important additional information on eligibility criteria and the responsibilities of service are available here.

Applications for nomination for the 2019-2020 year will be available DATE

In the meantime, for more information, please contact NAME AND EMAIL.

Volunteer for ANS Savannah River - Join a Committee

As a member of ANS Savannah River, there's no better way to give back to the section or the nuclear profession than by volunteering for one of our sections' committees. Joining a committee is a great opportunity to expand your network and share your skills to advance the nuclear profession as well as learn new practices from your colleagues.

Committees are always accepting new members. To get involved right away and ensure maximum participation as a committee member, please complete and submit your Committee Interest Form. Join your section colleagues who have chosen to advance their networks and careers while enhancing member programs and services. Make an investment in your profession and yourself.
